Perry Twp. Zoning Change Opposed

Rt. 62 Residents Voice Objections At Hearing

The vast majority of Perry Township residents and property owners attending a preliminary hearing Monday night on a proposed zoning change on Rt. 62, just north of the city, voiced disapproval of the reclassification proposal.

An overflow crowd of nearly 100 persons jammed into the township hall on the Depot Road to present their views on the request of Ray Weingart for the zoning change which would permit the construction of a large shopping plaza on his farm.

The hearing was marked by tragedy when Fred Redinger, 59, of the Albany Road collapsed at about 8:30. He was brought to the Central Clinic where he was pronounced dead of a heart attack.

Weingart, whose property is in an agricultural zone, seeks reclassification to a commercial status.

According to Atty. Bryce Kendall, who represented Weingart at the hearing, the proposed plaza would include a restaurant, a service station, a food store, a department store, a beauty salon, a barber shop and possibly a bowling alley.

James E. Cunningham chairman of the Perry Township Zoning Commission, presided over the hearing and explained to those present that the commission could not make a final decision on the change, but merely was seeking the good and bad features of the matter in order to make a recommendation to the township trustees.

The trustees will then advise another public hearing and make a decision based on that hearing.

ZONING CHANGE HEARING—Atty. Lozier Caplan, shown above gesturing, represented one of many Rt. 62 residents who cited objections Monday night to a proposed zoning change on Rt. 62, north of Salem, which would permit construction of shopping center. The township hall on the Depot Road was inadequate for the crowd attending the hearing, with some persons forced to stand outside and look through the windows.

and the recommendation of the zoning commission.

In presenting his case for the zoning change, Kendall told the group that, contrary to popular belief, the values of properties adjacent to the plaza would not decrease but probably would increase.

To back his claim, Kendall described circumstances following the building of the new Salem Senior High School. After the school was built, according to Kendall, many persons who lived in the neighborhood moved out because of the increase in traffic and activity.

"But the value of the properties did not drop; many persons with children were eager to move in," Kendall said.

"The same thing would be true with the shopping center," Kendall declared, "while some people who want to live in a more quiet neighborhood would move out, other persons who desire the convenience of the center would move in."

Kendall also said that the addition of the nearly $800,000 project on the township tax duplicate would decrease the taxes of the other property owners. "Assuming of course that the amount of needed revenue remains the same," he added.

Leading the parade of persons speaking against the change was

Akron Girl, 12, Is Murdered

Minister's Daughter Found In Woods

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Sheriff's deputies questioned a teen-age boy today in the death of 12-year-old Marion Brubaker, a minister's daughter whose nude, beaten body was found in a woods near here home.

The 15-year-old boy reported finding the body late Monday in a thicket in Coventry Twp. He was questioned until the early hours of the morning and was given a lie detector test, then was sent to the detention home. Deputies indicated they would have more questions for him later.

An hour before the body was found Marion had been seen pedaling her bicycle on Portage Lakes Drive on a two-mile trip home from a branch library. She was on a shortcut path through the woods where she was killed.

The Summit County coroner said her death resulted from strangling. He was awaiting results of tests on whether the slim, dark-haired girl had been raped.

Deputies said the bruises and marks on her body indicated she put up an intensive struggle before her death.

Blood was found on the path, along with fragments of a bottle that may have been used as a club. Bruise marks covered the child's throat. Her clothing — a blouse, brassiere, shorts and tennis shoes — were scattered near the body and were ripped and shredded.

The body was found in heavy undergrowth about 50 feet off the path and the bicycle had been dragged into the thicket. It was checked for fingerprints.

"God did not take her—sin in a human heart took her, not God," said her father, the Rev. Clair D. Brubaker, pastor of the non-denominational Protestant Hillwood Chapel Community Church for 11 years.

He said he and his wife, parents of three other daughters, Martha,

Action Caps 23-Year Battle

Congress Approves Banning of Poll Tax

WASHINGTON (AP) — Capping a 23-year battle, Congress has approved a proposed constitutional amendment which would ban poll taxes in federal elections.

Now it's up to the states, which have seven years to make up their minds.

With 40 votes to spare, the House completed action Monday on a resolution submitting to the state legislatures the proposition of making it constitutionally illegal to require payment of a poll tax to vote in elections for federal officials.

The vote was 295 to 86. A two-thirds majority was needed for approval. The winners included 163 Democrats and 132 Republicans. On the losing side were 71 Democrats and 15 Republicans.

Most of the dissenting Democrats were from the five states still having poll taxes: Arkansas, Alabama, Mississippi, Texas and Virginia.

The next move is up to the General Services Administration. That agency must certify the congressional action—approved last March by the Senate—to the governors of the 50 states. If three-fourths of the state legislatures—38 of them—ratify the proposed amendment within seven years it will become the law of the land. The abolition proposal does not affect elections for state and local officials. It applies only to presidential and vice presidential elections and to voters for senators and United States representatives. There was no certainty that approval by the 38 legislatures

Housing Unit To Conduct Survey Here

The City Council committee formed recently to look into the possibility and advisability of asking the federal government for funds to build public low-rent housing units in Salem held its first meeting Monday night and decided the next step will be to conduct some type of survey to determine if a need for such units exists here.

Mayor Dean B. Cranmer, who has asked Council to consider seeking funds from the federal government for approximately 100 low-rent housing units, attended last night's committee meeting.

He said at this time he is interested only in new units for the elderly and not for families. Cranmer said he understands that such housing could be constructed with federal funds at no cost to the city. The units would be made available to aged people who rely entirely upon social security and small pensions for subsistence.

Charles Gibbs (R. 2nd Ward), chairman of Council's special housing committee, said an effort will be made to set up a meeting early next month with the head of the housing authority in Youngstown to get his advice on conducting a survey on housing needs here.

Other members of the housing committee are Harold Astry (D. 3rd Ward) and Ralph Zimmerman (R. 4th Ward).

Engine Is Key In Venus Probe

Success Hinges on 37.3-Pound Motor

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A small ace-in-the-hole motor weighing 37.3 pounds is the big key to America's attaining the world's most significant interplanetary achievement—shooting the Mariner 2 spacecraft on an exploratory mission past Venus.

If the complex space messenger sweeps within 10,000 miles of Venus in December as planned—after a 180-million mile trip—it would mark a major breakthrough for the United States in the race for space.

Information relayed by Mariner 2 could help scientists and astronomers unravel secrets concealed for centuries by the planet's constant cloud layers. It could determine whether life as we know it possibly could exist on the planet, something doubted by most scientists.

The spacecraft motor became all-important Monday when analysis of tracking data indicated an excellent chance Mariner 2 can be directed from the ground to the vicinity of Venus even though it is far off course.

The critical firing of the motor by ground signal is scheduled tentatively for next Tuesday, Sept. 4, after the flight path, alignment,

Hopes Rise, Fall Along Red Wall In Divided City

But Inside East Germany Is Spirit Of Resignation

By LOYAL GOULD
LEIPZIG, East Germany (AP) —Hopes rise and fall along the Berlin Wall with the slightest change in the East-West political climate. But inside East Germany, there is a spirit of resignation.

Walter Ulbricht, Germany's top Red, has succeeded in wiping out almost all hope for a change for the better.

"After 17 years of Communist rule," a Leipzig streetcar conductor said, "we are coming to accept our fate."

He expressed the opinion of dozens of people this reporter talked to during 10 days in this former cultural and commercial center.

Once known as a little Paris because of its sparkling intellectual and social life, Leipzig now has the drab uniformity and widespread shabbiness characteristic of East Germany's colorless cities.

"Since it looks to many of us as if it's going to stay this way, we're knuckling under and trying to make the best of a bad situation," said a student from East Berlin's Humboldt University.

"The only way to get ahead here is to at least pretend you're a good Communist," he explained. Joining the party assured him a university education, a slightly better diet and preference for a job when he graduates next year.

"There are about 1.6 million of us in the party," he continued, "and about 1 per cent are true believers."

"What's the use of showing opposition? You'll only suffer for it. Why try to escape? You'll probably be killed."

A shop clerk in her late teens voiced similar opinions.

"There's no use even pretending it ever will be any different," she said, "because the people running things here are backed up by Russian power."

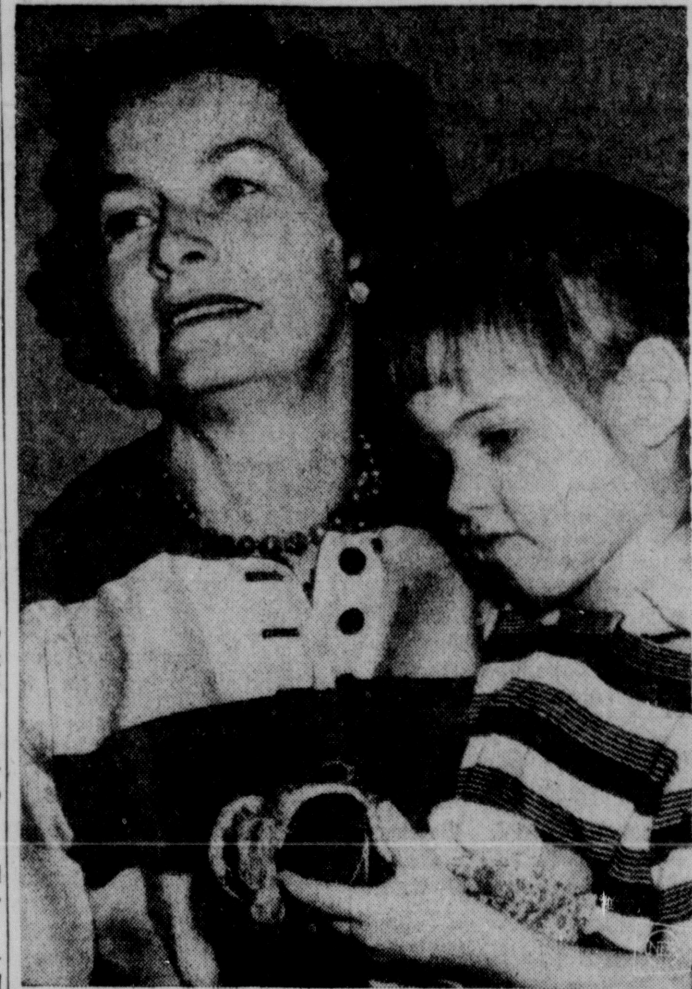

The girl, who would be pretty if she had the things with which Western women enhance their looks, is a member of the Communist Free German Youth organization.

Her fiancé is a 20-year-old machinist in a Leipzig factory. The party has promised them a 2½-room apartment in an apartment house to be completed in three months.

"I have to give lip service to party doctrine," said the machinist, "but why not when it's to my advantage?"

He said Communist and non-Communist workers in his factory meet almost daily to discuss the editorials in the party's main newspaper Neues Deutschland.

"These sessions are boring and time consuming and we dislike them," he continued, "but if you don't show you've read and understood the editorials, you're sunk."

HOPES SHE'S HERS—Mrs. Lillian Oachs hugs the child that she hopes to prove hers by footprint on a birth certificate. Mrs. Oachs flew to Indianapolis, Ind., from her home in New Ulm, Minn., after seeing nationwide publicity concerning the little girl, dubbed "Little Miss Q," after the child, about 4, was found wandering near an Indianapolis bus station. Mrs. Oachs said the child disappeared in January 1961, during a visit by her divorced husband.

To Weld Front Against Opponents

Pro-Bella Guerrilla Leaders To Meet

ALGIERS (AP) — The chief of the regular Algerian army summoned guerrilla leaders to a meeting in eastern Algeria today in an effort to weld a common front against anti-Ben Bella guerrillas controlling Algiers and the surrounding area.

From his headquarters in western Algeria, Col. Houari Boumedi-enne called the commanders of Wilayas (military zones) Nos. 1, 2, 5 and 6 to the meeting in Setif, 150 miles east of Algiers on the road to Constantine.

The leaders of Wilayas 3 and 4, who chased Deputy Premier Ahmed Ben Bella's Political Bureau out of the capital, were not invited.

Boumedienne, chief of the 45,000-man regular army, clearly was attempting to unite most of Algeria's 100,000 troops against the anti-Ben Bella guerrilla commanders in central Algeria. But there was no sign that shooting was imminent.

Diplomatic observers believe the opposing sides will continue to try to avoid bloodshed. They fear, however, that a form of military dictatorship will emerge from the economic chaos and bitter political bickering that has prevailed since independence July 3.

The anti-Ben Bella leaders command an imposing force of toughened veterans of the war for independence against France. Wilaya 4, controlling Algiers, is believed to have 20,000 men under arms. Their supporters in Wilaya 3, in the Kabylie Mountains to the east, are estimated at 10,000.

Boumedienne's own troops are largely untested, having sat it

Damascus Post Office Bids Sought

The Post Office Department is seeking competitive bids to build and lease a new post office at Damascus, Postmaster General J. Edward Day announced Monday.

Under the department's lease construction program, the successful bidder will construct the building according to departmental specifications and lease it to the Post Office Department for a basic period of five years, with options to renew the lease for an additional two years.

The department's capital investment will be limited substantially to postal equipment. The building will remain under private ownership, with the owner paying local real estate taxes.

Bidding documents will be available on or about Sept. 5, and may be obtained from Leo V. Loughhead, regional real estate officer, P.O. Box 5997, Main Post Office, Cleveland. The real estate officer will supply bidding forms, building specifications, lease provisions and other information. Bids must be submitted to the real estate officer by Oct. 4.

The post office at Damascus has been located since 1916 in a store which is now called Steer's Market. Ralph Steer has been postmaster for about six years.

Boy Treated After Drinking Lighter Fluid

LISBON — Terry Culbertson, 17-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Olen Culbertson of Rt. 172, Lisbon RD 4, was treated at Salem City Hospital about noon Monday after drinking lighter fluid.

He apparently got little of the fluid itself, but was "knocked out" by inhaling the fumes. Lisbon volunteer fire department's ambulance took him to the hospital. Mrs. Culbertson said Terry seems all right today.

Sets Up Private Ownership of Relay Stations

Measure Approved Despite Opposition Of Liberal Group

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has on his desk today the communications satellite bill he wanted.

It sets up a private, profit-making corporation to run the U.S. portion of an eventual global network on space relay stations.

The House approved a Senate version of the bill 372 to 10 Monday, foreclosing any chance to another Senate filibuster.

A small group of House liberals argued again that the bill represents a giveaway of millions of taxpayers' dollars spent on space research that makes the revolutionary communications system possible.

Rep. Oren Harris, D-Ark., chairman of the House Commerce Committee, said, "Our nation needs it. It needs it now, and without further delay."

Rep. W. R. Poage, D-Tex., who voted against the bill, said the corporation's board of directors will be dominated by the American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

The private enterprise approach to the problem of how to run a global communications network was worked out in the executive branch after months of behind the scenes debate. It has the strong backing of the President.

The satellite corporation would have 15 directors: Six named by the communications companies, six elected by public stockholders and three appointed by the President.

The communications companies could buy up to 50 per cent of the stock. The other half would be offered to the public at $100 a share.

Water Supply Problem Aired In Leetonia

LEETONIA—Council members and members of the Board of Trustees of Public Affairs held a special meeting Monday in the mayor's office relative to the village's water supply problem.

Board members asked that a state of emergency concerning the water supply be declared. Council announced that tests of all the wells will be taken before an emergency is declared and before the recommended new water line is acted upon. The State Board of Health will be asked to test the milky water in the well on the Bricker farm.

The formation of a treasury investment board consisting of the mayor, the village clerk and the village solicitor was approved. In case of emergency, the board will be able to borrow money from other funds.

With the approval of Kenneth Bell, county auditor, an assistant clerk will be hired to help William Gabriel, clerk of the Board of Trustees of Public Affairs, bring the records up to date.

Council approved moving the fire phone and control circuit for the siren from a former jewelry store to Isaly's Dairy Store.

Present were Mayor Ralph Kennedy, and Councilmen Joe Weikart, Elby Morris, Chester Whitacre, Dan Cullinan and Dale McCormick.

Board members present were William L. Woodall and Clarence Bricker. Also attending were Dan Butch, village clerk; Edward Greenamyer, village solicitor and Ralph Sposetta, acting superintendent of the water department.

First U.S. Income Tax Was Passed In 1862

An AP News Analysis

WASHINGTON (AP)—Just over 100 years ago the first income tax in American history went into effect with a provision now being kicked around in Congress as if it were brand new and unthinkable.

This act of July 1, 1862—among other things—called for withholding a tax on dividends and interest paid out by banks, trust companies, railroads, savings institutions and insurance companies.

The Supreme Court in 1881, by a unanimous decision, declared this act constitutional.

But now when President Kennedy asks Congress to approve a withholding tax on dividends and interest—as part of a general tax revision to close loopholes in the tax laws—he has run into fiery opposition.

Sen. Harry F. Byrd, conservative Southern Democrat of Virginia, says the dividend withholding is “unworkable.” Sen. Jacob K. Javits, liberal New York Republican, says it is “impractical.”

Stock exchange firms, life insurance companies and banks want it knocked out of the bill or changed. The National Association of Manufacturers blasted the whole bill.

Support for the idea comes from equally strange mates, like liberal Sen. Paul Douglas, D-Ill., and the conservative U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

Stranger still, nobody on either side seems to remember that act of 1862 which provided for what Kennedy is asking now. But that law of a century ago should be an eye-opener to those who think some of the main features of the present tax system are of recent origin.

It was a graduated income tax. Then—as now—the first $600 of income was exempt. Then the tax was 3 per cent on income between $600 and $10,000 and 5 per cent on all income over $10,000. It went up higher later in the Civil War. It also imposed a tax on inheritance over $1,000. And—the tax was withheld from the salaries of government employees.

The House passed Kennedy's tax revision bill March 29, leaving in the withholding tax on dividends and interest. Then the measure went over to the Senate where the Finance Committee, headed by Byrd, began hearings.

When the Byrd committee got through with the bill, the withholding tax on dividends was gone. The Senate this week began debate on the measure.

The Senate bill, as it stands, instead of saving the government money will probably cost the government money. It's a guess whether the withholding tax on dividends and interest will be put back on the Senate floor.

Yet, the Treasury says $4 billion in dividend and interest income is not reported each year on tax returns. It estimates $800 million is lost yearly because of this and that withholding would bring in $650 million more.

Congress passed the 1862 act as

IN THE WORKS—TITAN III—Scheduled for readiness in the mid-1960's, Titan III super rocket has been given the go-ahead by Defense Dept. one more way to pay for the Civil War. The greatest revenue came from other sources, like tariffs. There was a lot of cheating then, too, and gripes about the complicated tax forms.

Congress abolished this whole tax measure in 1872 under pressure from business during President Grant's administration. In 10 years it brought the government about $375 million. The revenue from other taxes ran to about $1.5 billion in the same time.

Still, in a landmark case, the act was challenged in 1865 by a lawyer who argued it wasn't right to tax a lawyer's income. This stumbled through the courts until in 1881 the Supreme Court told him he was wrong.

Between 1872 and the end of the century American industrial development was on its way. Some men made great fortunes. There were also hardships and demands for social reform. The Populists in their 1892 platform called for a new income tax. A lot of Democrats favored it. And Congress passed it in 1894, not a graduated tax, as in 1862, but a flat 2 per cent tax on all kinds of income.

The rich men didn't like it. One of the leading attorneys fighting it was John D. Rockefeller's lawyer, Joseph Choate, although Rockefeller was not involved. And in 1895, in a blinding reversal of that 1881 decision, a highly conservative court declared the income tax unconstitutional. The vote in this case was 5 to 4.

To make an income tax constitutional the country then had to pass the 16th Amendment to the Constitution in 1913. But in those years between 1895 and 1913 the nation had to do without needed revenue.

Newspaper Reporter Is Hero of TV Series

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—There's a touch of both irony and paradox in the fact that the hero of NBC's new "Saints and Sinners" series is a newspaper reporter.

After all, NBC and its sister networks spend vast sums of money and considerable time glamorizing, exploiting and publicizing their own staffs of electronic journalists—the Huntleys, Brinkleys and Cronkites—so one would expect that, under corporate policy if nothing else, a television portrait of a newsmen would be the fellow with the microphone and the off-camera prompter.

The sad, sad truth is that television journalists, no matter how glamorous, just don't make good adventure-story heroes. They are weighted down by their broadcast equipment and plots are likely to trip over the cables.

But the newspaper reporter, unencumbered by anything heavier than a notebook and pen, is a proven, handy protagonist, even though he has been misused so badly through years of motion pictures and television quickies that naive viewers have come to regard him as either a quixotic drunk of some kind of a nut.

Even so, "Saints and Sinners," if you take the word of the show's developer and head writer, Adrian Spies, will be different although the pilot show, aired as a Dick Powell episode last season, was not likely to stimulate any spontaneous cheers from the nation's city rooms.

Spies, in his salad days, was a newspaperman himself, and looks back upon those carefree, $40-a-week days with a degree of romantic nostalgia permissible only in a man who has moved into upper income brackets. He promises that none of the usual cheap newspaperman clichés will creep into his show.

"There will be none of this yelling 'Scoop,' or 'Tear up the front page,' or funny Frank McHugh drunks," said Spies. "We'll even have reporters accept quietly the fact they've missed the deadline of an edition."

Spies is much more worried about the public's reaction to a newspaper-based series than he is about anguished screams from the wounded newspaper community.

"I wonder if there is a predisposition on the part of the public to accept those old clichés after so much exposure to them?" fretted Spies. "But even more, I wonder is the public still fascinated by the newspaper business?"

Obviously Spies is, and so is Nick Adams, who will play what the show prospectus calls "star reporter of the New York Bulletin." (Gosh, Adrian, I haven't heard of a star reporter since the last time I ran into the city room yelling "Scoop!")

At any rate, it's one show the older women in the audience are almost guaranteed to adore: John Larkin will play the city editor, and as every veteran viewer of day-time television knows, John Larkin for many, many years played the lawyer-hero of "Edge of Night."

Ex-President Hoover To Have Operation

NEW YORK (AP) — Surgeons planned an operation today on former President Herbert Hoover, 88, for removal of a growth in the large intestine. The growth was described as of a type which generally is noncancerous.

Hoover entered Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center Aug. 20 for a routine physical checkup. The hospital announced Monday that x-ray studies and laboratory tests had shown "evidence of a polypoid lesion in the upper part of Mr. Hoover's large bowel."

His health has been unusually good for one of his age. His last extended stay in Columbia Presbyterian was in 1958 when his gall bladder was removed.

Negro Judge Still Awaits Senate OK

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Thurgood Marshall, the Negro lawyer who led the step-by-step fight of Negroes against segregation in America, got a lot of practice in waiting. He needed it.

Almost a year ago President Kennedy, deciding to appoint him to the federal Court of Appeals, sent his nomination to the Senate for approval. There has been no approval yet.

But the Senate whipped through in a few days with its blessing for Byron O. (Whizzer) White when Kennedy last March appointed the former All-America football star to the higher position of Supreme Court justice.

Neither the delay with Marshall nor the speed with White lay with the full Senate.

The responsibility in both cases rested with the Senate Judiciary Committee headed by James O. Eastland, Mississippi Democrat, and with another Southern Democrat, Olin D. Johnston of South Carolina, head of a subcommittee.

The 54-year-old Marshall, as chief counsel for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, started in 1938 to argue before the Supreme Court, in case after case, against segregation of Negroes.

He won all but three. His crowning achievement was in the Supreme Court decision of May 17, 1954, outlawing segregation in public schools.

Last Sept. 23 Kennedy nominated him to the 2nd Circuit Court of Appeals which handles cases from Vermont, Connecticut and New York and sent his name to the Senate. Congress quit before any action was taken. So on Oct. 23, 1961 Kennedy gave him a recess appointment.

When Congress returned this year, Kennedy sent his name to the Senate again, this time on Jan. 15.

As usual the nomination was referred to Eastland's committee where the procedure is to hold public hearings on the man's merits. After the hearings the committee votes for or against.

If the votes are against, that almost always ends it. If the committee approves, then the name goes to the full Senate for approval or the opposite.

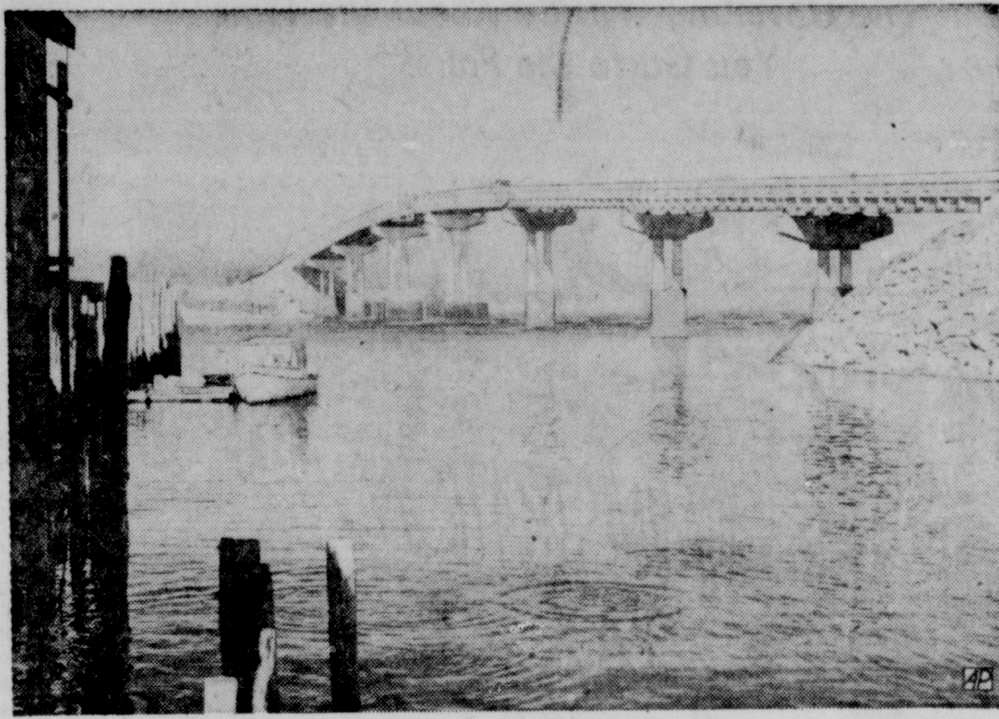

But Eastland turned Marshall's case over to Johnston for his subcommittee to hold hearings.

The procedure here, after the subcommittee hearings, is for the full committee to vote. But Johnston stalled and held six hearings since January.

This is quite a contrast with the treatment White got. Kennedy nominated him March 30. White at the time was deputy attorney general. Before that he had been a practicing attorney.

In 1960 White, whose home is Colorado, had organized a Kennedy-for-President group and in 1961, during the presidential campaign, headed the National Volunteers for Kennedy.

White's nomination didn't go to a subcommittee. Although the full committee probably knew far less about White than it did about Marshall, a brief hearing was held April 11 and White got unanimous committee approval. That same day the full Senate approved.

Some of the Judiciary Committee members who are not on Johnston's subcommittee — like Democrats Philip A. Hart of Michigan and John A. Carroll of Colorado and Republican Kenneth B. Keating of New York — have been publicly putting the heat on Johnston to get through with the Marshall case.

Johnston decided Friday he had had enough hearings. But he hasn't decided when he'll call his subcommittee together to consider Marshall's worthiness before reporting to the full judiciary committee.

Since Congress is in a rush to quit and go home, there's a chance the full Senate won't be able to vote on Marshall this year unless there's quick action by Johnston and Eastland. Marshall's salary will be cut off if he's not confirmed before the Senate adjourns.

Teachers, Students Benefit From Programmed Learning

The rapid increase of teaching devices is proving a boon to teachers faced with overcrowded classrooms.

The student, too, receives unexpected dividends—he can proceed at his own pace.

Programmed learning, as one of the self-help methods of teaching is called, is a technique of arranging subject matter in small steps, simple at first, then gradually becoming more advanced. Working at his own rate through this logical sequence of thousands of "frames" of subject matter, the student can test himself to see whether he has mastered the material. Later he will be tested on standardized examinations.

Slow students as well as speedy can benefit from this method. They can stick to one area of the subject until it is completely clear, without being put into a quicker classmate.

Since programmed textbooks are handy to carry around, the student can take them home.

More elaborate extensions of the same approach to today's teaching involve using a machine or an eight millimeter projector, with material thrown on a screen.

Programmed material can be presented so it not only teaches facts, but helps a student appreciate and develop creatively. The trick, of course, is in the preparation of the programs, for which writer-educators must be especially trained.

Mastery of the programmed learning approach frees the teacher from the necessity of holding constant drill in basic material and also spares the student from over-repetition of work he has already mastered.

Ditches that surrounded Neolithic settlements in Italy have long since been filled, yet the 4,000-year-old pattern is still visible from the air.

Men Will Find the Answer

There is a threadbare speculation about population growth that goes like this:

In 1961 the population of the earth passed the three billion mark. If things go on as they are going at present, the number will double to six billion before the end of this century and to 12 billion by 2031—four times as many people in 70 years. If the trend continues the earth will be so overpopulated that each human being who wanted to survive would have to kill several thousand neighbors just to get enough land to raise enough food for himself.

The trick in this speculation is, of course, that the trend may not continue. Demographers point to some significant statistics. In Soviet Russia, where Marx's ideology favors unlimited population increase, rates of increase suggest that the people are resisting government policy. They resist official doctrine.

Birth rates in France and Ireland have been declining for decades, in line with a general decline throughout Western Europe. A United Nations report pointed out in 1959 that a stabilized and eventually a declining birth rate goes step in step with an improvement in economic and social conditions. The more people know, the more responsibility they feel for their family.

The present danger is that better medical care and public health in backward countries will swamp them with population before economic and social improvement have prompted their people to restrict the growth of their families.

In Egypt, cursed by poverty, President

Gamal Abdel Nasser said last May, "This year we have added to our number 800,000 persons. May God bless them. We cannot go on at this rate."

In India, whose population has been going up at a rate of eight million a year, Prime Minister Nehru has declared, "Our five-year plans have no meaning if the population grows at a rate one can never catch up with."

In Ceylon, a malaria control program caused a decrease of 30 per cent in the death rate in a single year. But the Ceylon birth rate is 37 per thousand compared with a European rate of 19. Ceylon now is in danger of being swamped with people it cannot support.

The only encouraging aspect is that people themselves become aware of the problem and try to solve it. They are not like rabbits. Philip M. Hauser of the University Research Training Center there, summed up of Chicago and director of the Population difference in these words:

"Anyone who claims to know what the future population of this nation, or any area, is going to be is either a fool or a charlatan. For we do not yet have sufficient knowledge to predict the course of the birth rate. Such projections are, nevertheless, much more than exercises in arithmetic. The fact that man is able to consider their consequences is one reason the projected numbers will never come to pass. For in recognizing the implications of his birth rate, mankind will proceed to modify it."

No Holds Barred In Cuba

On the reasonable assumption that something is cooking where there's so much steam and smoke, Cuba apparently is about to come into the news again.

Symptoms of government weakness have been detected by so many observers in so many forms it is a certainty the Castro regime is having trouble organizing Cuba according to communist specifications. This is not surprising.

No satellite country ever has met communist specifications without trouble. The trouble is built into the specifications, which go against the grain of human nature in Cuba, Russia, Hungary, China, Czechoslovakia, Vietnam, Lithuania—everywhere.

Communist party members themselves cannot see eye to eye on the specifications. In Hungary, Chinese Communists are fighting Russian Communists. Communists in Yugoslavia fight Communists in both Peiping and Moscow. Albanian Communists fight Yugoslav Communists. Even Russian Communists cannot agree.

Communism is an unworkable system of economics and only a semi-workable system of politics when organized on police state lines.

This is the likeliest explanation for the reported military buildup in Cuba. Its purpose is not necessarily to protect Cuba from invasion, though that is an eventuality to be hoped for, but to protect Castro's puppet government from the consequences of growing dissatisfaction among the Cuban people.

It means as it always has meant before that no holds are barred when the object is to conquer a state. They were not barred in Hungary when dissatisfaction fed revolutionary fires; they won't be barred in Cuba. If Cubans must be purged to make Cuba safe for communism, the tanks will open fire.

As for the possibility of an invasion, it is exciting and almost encouraging. Sooner or later, the United States must reach the conclusion that Cuba as a direct threat to its security and the security of its hemispheric allies is intolerable. When that happens, any invasion of Cuba with a chance of overthrowing Castro's puppet government will deserve U.S. support.

Soblen and the Legalisms

If Robert A. Soblen is as close to death as his doctors have testified he is and as far from being returned to the United States as his lawyers intend to keep him, this country never will see him again. Either he will die and be interred in British soil, or long-drawn-out legal proceedings that already have used up two months will drag on enough longer to give him another chance to wriggle free and tie up the hair-splitting legalisms of some other country.

The issue in the Soblen case as far as the ordinary run of public opinion in the United States is concerned is the hair-splitting legalism with which this convicted traitor is surrounded at a safe distance from the country he betrayed.

If Britain were trying to recover a convicted traitor who had shown himself willing and capable of selling out a country that had given him hospitality as an alien and the United States had him in custody, Americans would be in favor of telling its lawyers to stand aside for British jailers.

It is pleasant to recall how Adolf Eichmann, the Nazi butcher-boy, was snatched out of Argentina by a flying squadron of five Israelis before a lawyer could zip open a brief case. If Israel had asked for the prisoner, Eichmann would still be in Buenos Aires.

Perhaps this explains why Israel got rid of Soblen as soon as it discovered he was its unannounced, uninvited and unwelcome guest. It has a precedent for dealing with fugitives whose crimes are so heinous they have foregone all right of refuge.

It's at the age of about 50 that a man realizes he should have worked hard and saved when young.

It's so easy to tell other people how to do things that you never get around to doing yourself.

India's Saint

By Elizabeth Partridge

CALCUTTA
Mother Theresa, Albanian-born winner of this year's Ramon Magsaysay Award for the promotion of international understanding, is widely spoken of as a saint in India. Now an Indian citizen, she has worked in the slums of Calcutta—perhaps the most notorious and pestilential in the world—for more than 30 years.

In 1948 the Pope gave her permission to found her own "Missionaries of Charity" who today number 169, and who include two American nuns and one West German.

Their work among India's millions of sick and destitute now takes them over most of Northern India, including Delhi, Agra and Bombay.

But Mother Theresa's most striking charity is perhaps her Calcutta Home for Dying Destitutes. While most Europeans prefer not to go out into this city alone after dark, she drives through the poorest districts in her van, picking up those who would otherwise die of starvation in the streets.

She takes them, regardless of color, creed or class, to her Home and gives them—what is probably the kindest gift one could offer such destitutes—a decent place to die. Those who can be saved, more often than not the children, are sent for training so that they have a chance to take their place in Calcutta's overstrained economy.

I accompanied Mother Theresa on one such errand to pick up a ghost of a woman and her two children.

The baby boy, aged 12 months, died within 48 hours of starvation. The woman, who had advanced tuberculosis of both lungs, obviously was soon to follow. But the little girl, with food and care, survived and was sent to one of the 14 primary schools run by Mother Theresa.

I asked her whether she never felt saddened by so much suffering and poverty. "Saddened? Never," she said. "Can you not understand what happiness it is to take these people, whom nobody wants, and give them love and care until they die?"

She is as good an organizer as she is a woman of faith. Besides her home and the 14 primary schools, she runs eight leprosy centers—last year they treated more than 70,000 sufferers—a tuberculosis clinic, six dispensaries, a home for crippled children, two commercial schools and a carpentry training center.

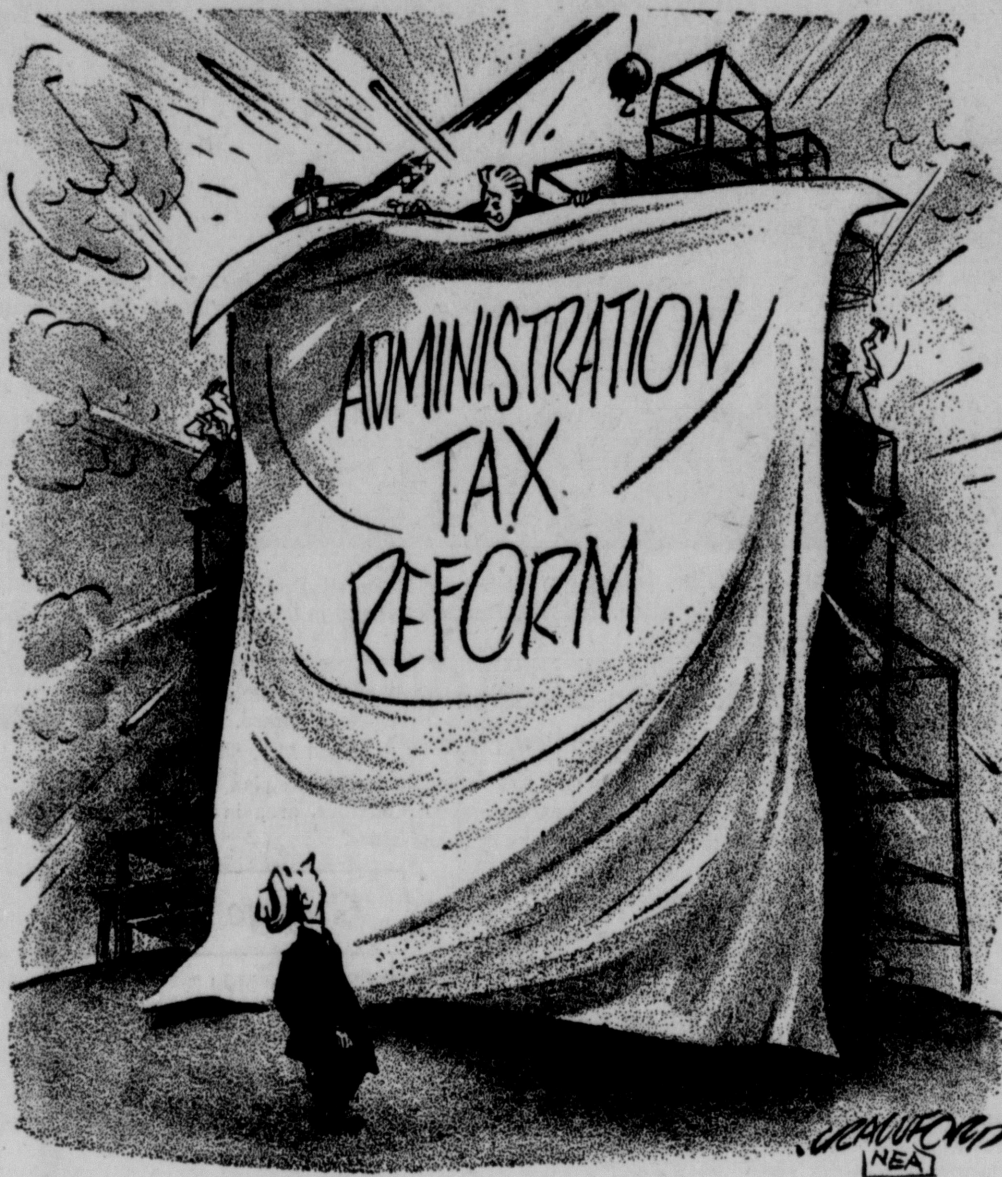

But only Mother Theresa goes out into the Calcutta slums without the gauze mask she insists on for all her helpers.

Among themselves her nuns talk about Mother Theresa's miracles, as when a mad-dened bull charged down a slum lane, injuring its terrified occupants as it approached the little nun, busy treating a group of lepers.

She raised her hand, and the beast halted in front of her and allowed itself to be led quietly away.

But Mother Theresa permits no talk of sainthood in her presence. She is happy in knowing that her work is for the greater glory of God. She has characteristically refused an invitation to receive her award personally in Manila since she will be too busy in Calcutta. And she plans to spend the $10,000 prize money "on the poor people I serve."

"The Unveiling Will Be About the Time You Go to the Polls!"

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

HONG KONG
This dispatch comes to you from a spot surrounded by Chinese Communist (ChiCom) gunboats and British patrol and small police jet engine craft—a spot not too far from the famed free world of Susie Wong. British patrol fire has just killed two of 79 refugees in a Chinese junk trying to reach this free world. The incident was as dramatic as it was pathetic. But the sheer bloody drama of it all is deceiving many back home including many respected experts.

Victor Riesel

The traumatic refugee outpouring and reports of the vastest starvation in civilized history are being interpreted as the signs of imminent collapse of the Chi-Coms and the beginning of a revolution against Mao Tse-tung's government.

Nothing could be further from the facts.

THE CHINESE Communist government in Peiping still is all powerful. It is troubled. But it isn't shaken.

There will not be any successful revolution from within.

The present Chi-Com leaders will not lose their grip on either the Chinese Communist party or the government. And the government positively will not lose its grip on the people or the nation from Lhasa to Shanghai, from the north to the nearby Canton line.

The view of our own and British specialists in this Macao-Hong Kong frontier sector—men who have been here for many years—can be put this way:

The Chi-Coms have lost considerable popular support. But their stability and power have not been noticeably affected. This is due largely to the far-flung and comprehensive control apparatus they have methodically built over the past 10 years.

THE CENTRAL core of this control system is the Chinese Communist party. It has more than 17 million members. This makes it the world's largest Communist party.

This, in turn, is supported by a vast, loyal, and well-indoctrinated military "establishment." Party membership still is a prize. Millions struggle to get in.

It still puts members, and so does the military, in the highest social strata. This means fair housing, good food and clothing and administrative and "foremen" type jobs.

As a proving ground for the Communist party there is the Young Communist League of more than 25 million young activists who regularly receive "Six Level" instructions.

Thus, this Youth League plus the party and the military make up a pro-government force of some 50 million people. Their interests are directly interwoven with the stability of the regime.

IN ADDITION there are "People's" organizations. These groups include labor unions, women's groups, youth organizations and even religious units such as the All-China Islamic Association and the All-China Protestant Organization.

They are used by the regime to maintain contact with the people, to test public opinion, to insure enforcement of its policies—and to provide the outlets for the greatest internal espionage system in the world.

This has made for the most stable party control in the history of Communist parties.

While other Communist parties have been purged and repurged and their leaders killed and exiled, the Chi-Com party has been under the constant leadership of Mao Tse-tung and a small nucleus of his closest associates for the past 25 years.

IT EXHIBITS the greatest degree of leadership stability of any Communist party.

No ruling group in the world has ever commanded such complete dictatorial power as that exercised by the small Standing Committee of the Chinese Communist Politburo.

Thus the ability of the regime to remain in power despite the growing hunger and disillusionment of the people is easily explainable in terms of the utterly complete organizational controls which the Chinese Communists command over all the people.

This command can be exerted to force at least passive compliance from every person in a nation of almost 700 million people.

Any person who believes otherwise is smoking political heroin—and is living in a dream world.

It is of utmost importance to check the refugees' records. This has been done. I have been told of the results.

They tell the real story: Not a single military official, of all the tens of thousands of recent refugees, has defected to the free world.

Not a labor leader has defected. Not a single important intellectual leader, not a single party leader, not a single writer, artist or scientist has come over.

This is the true test. The Chi-Com hold is powerful. The Peiping government will not be overthrown from within.

Time for Truth

By DAVID LAWRENCE

U. S. Cold War Strategy Needs Revamped

Robert F. Kennedy, attorney general and spokesman occasionally on matters of public policy for his distinguished brother, the President of the United States, has written a book—just published—which is based on observations he made on his recent travels abroad.

He urges the United States government to start a vigorous campaign to "sell the truth" to students and intellectuals overseas.

This focuses attention on one of America's biggest weaknesses in the Cold War.

It's true that the Soviet Union spends many times as much money as Congress appropriates for what are called "foreign information programs," but the ineffectiveness of the American effort doesn't seem to be due either to a lack of efficient personnel or to a dearth of funds. It stems from the absence of a clear-cut policy at the top.

Again and again, outside advisers are brought in, but neither the State Department nor the White House in this or in preceding administrations has laid down forceful principles that would constitute a constructive policy of external propaganda.

PLAINLY, it is impossible to educate the rest of the world about America primarily by sending abroad a hand-picked group of members of Congress, as Attorney General Kennedy suggests in his book. This isn't a job solely for speechmakers or lecturers sent out under the auspices of the American government. Desirable as some of these missions may be, the problem itself is bigger and has aspects far exceeding their scope.

What is needed is a strong offensive operation to counter the Soviet propaganda which is spread throughout the world. It is useless to argue with students or intellectuals who are in league with trained Communist agents.

It is much more important to demonstrate that these same intellectuals and students in Asia and Africa and Latin America are stooges who have been taught to sing the praises of Red China and the Soviet Union.

Anyone who is realistic about the methods of Communist infiltration knows that speeches by a chosen group of senators or representatives sent abroad aren't going to sway such Communist sympathizers, though American speakers can make a counter-offensive of their own.

America's opportunity will, however, come largely in presenting the truth about the Soviet Union to all peoples through the world's press and radio.

After attending the county fair we felt it was time to voice our opinion. First of all we took four grandchildren for 4-H Day to see the others who perform free of charge. Well, it sure wasn't free.

We bought tickets for us for 75 cents and 50 cents for the children which is outrageous for children on 4-day to get into the dirty grandstand and sit on filth. We had no paper, so we mopped up the dirt with our clothes. Poor families of 4-H children can't afford to pay such prices. We feel when it advertised that children are permitted free, it should mean "all the way" to help interest the children to grow up and later in life be exhibitors themselves.

As for the farm machinery display, many farms in Columbiana County have more machinery at home than was at the fair. Why? Is the fee so great? Why not give free space to fill up the grounds and also to fill the booths in the buildings.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Bricker RD 3, Salem.

Barbs

The cost of fall cleaning is why it begins with Dad's wallet.

NO UNSIGNED LETTERS
Letters for publication should not be longer than 300 words as a general rule. All letters will be judged on individual merit, particularly when more than one is received on the same subject. No letter will be published without a signature and address.

The normal channels for doing this are open to the American government whenever it wishes to speak its mind and give the truth about official United States policy to the world.

IT MIGHT be asked why this hasn't been done before or isn't being done now. The answer is that the State Department and some of the President's advisers now are and have been obsessed with the idea that the United States must not increase tensions or say unkind things about the Soviets, lest America be accused of blocking diplomatic agreements or retarding "negotiations."

A pussyfoot or supersensitive policy is a waste of money on the propaganda front in the Cold War.

Time and again the United States government has missed the boat on the export of its information programs because it has allowed itself to become too preoccupied with debate on controversies going on within this country.

American officials feel, for instance, that they must show more concern over what the Communists say about a demonstration in Albany, Ga., than over the practices of racial and religious discrimination inside the Soviet Union affecting millions and millions of persons there.

Private citizens and organizations, through trips abroad, can, as the attorney general urges, do a big job of helping to educate the leaders in other countries about the American system and way of life.

Student and other groups from those areas can be brought here to see the United States for themselves.

THE OFFICIAL propaganda, on the other hand, must be forthright, and the American government must stop spending time and money apologizing for defects here and there in the United States.

It is more important, for example, to present over the world's air waves a vigorous exposition of people's capitalism as it has succeeded in America.

But, for some reason or other, various articles and speeches distributed by our government abroad give the impression that the United States has a guilt complex about our private-enterprise system and feels that maybe government ownership might be better in the long run.

The Communists are quick to perceive such indecisiveness and faltering attitudes and to take full advantage of them on the propaganda front.

What is needed is a courageous avowal of the merits of the American system and a constant reiteration of the fact that, with all its faults, it still has produced a higher standard of living and greater personal freedom for more human beings than has any other system for any other people in the world.

Criticize County Fair

After attending the county fair we felt it was time to voice our opinion. First of all we took four grandchildren for 4-H Day to see the others who perform free of charge. Well, it sure wasn't free.

We bought tickets for us for 75 cents and 50 cents for the children which is outrageous for children on 4-day to get into the dirty grandstand and sit on filth. We had no paper, so we mopped up the dirt with our clothes. Poor families of 4-H children can't afford to pay such prices. We feel when it advertised that children are permitted free, it should mean "all the way" to help interest the children to grow up and later in life be exhibitors themselves.

As for the farm machinery display, many farms in Columbiana County have more machinery at home than was at the fair. Why? Is the fee so great? Why not give free space to fill up the grounds and also to fill the booths in the buildings.

Hints From Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

DEAR HELOISE: Anyone who complains about cleaning and washing venetian blinds should use the bathtub method which I think does the best job with the least effort.

I fill the bathtub with soapy water and a little bleach. I find this cleans the tapes and cords. I then put two blinds in the bathtub and forget them for about two hours. Drain the soapy water and rinse the same way. Slightly sponge if real dirty.

Place the wet blinds in a pail and carry them to the window. Replace the blinds on hooks while STILL dripping wet.

I use a towel or old bath mat on the window sills to catch the drippings. I have no spots on my blinds after following this method.

Mrs. V. Grant.

DEAR HELOISE: To keep the foot of the bedspread clean and do away with nagging the menfolk to take off their shoes before they lie down... put a piece of plastic runner at the foot of the bed (the same size as a dresser scarf). This, using pinkish shears, can be cut out of plastic to match your bedspread.

Questions and Answers

Q—I would like to ask you a question that will mean every-thing to me in my future life. I am 22, and I have had sugar for about seven years. I take insulin every day. I want now to get married. But if I have children, will they be troubled by what I have? Please give me the answer straight. It will mean everything to me.

A—While it is true that diabe-te tends to occur more frequently in the offspring of diabetics, this fact should not have the slightest ef-fect on eligibility for marriage or for parenthood.

From the intensity with which the question is posed, I suspect that either the writer or her fiancé is placing much too much emphasis on the existing problem. If either partner to the planned marriage were a child of mine, I'd enter no objections to the wedding pro-vided that the existence of the diabetic condition was the only hurdle on the path to the altar. "Your column entitled 'High School Facts Disturbing' inspired me to write the enclosed Declara-tion! As I light my second cig-arette, I do hereby solemnly declare that:

"(1) I willfully decide now, in the early years of my life, that I want to be saddled with a habit which will deprive me of the many fine things I could buy with the $5.475 representing the cost of a 30-cent pack a day for 50 years.

"(2) I know that at least 11 cents of the cost of each pack is tax and I'm just crazy to be a big taxpayer.

"(3) Doctors know that cig-arette smoke deposits tars, nico-tine and other harmful materials in my lungs but, having given these facts careful thought, I choose to disregard these warn-ings and make my body less resistant to many serious diseases for as long as I continue to smoke.

"(4) By forming this expen-sive and harmful habit I will be setting the example which my own sons and daughters will prob-ably follow. And . . .

"(5) I am afraid I am sure that it will save money, reduce my life several years.

"In conclusion may I say that I am a member of our local TB and Heart associations and a member of the executive com-mittee of the county health im-provement association. Also, I may add I am now buying cig-arettes for two daughters and one son, all in college, and one of the things I really don't need is this extra expense."—A.N.

Zoning

Atty. Lozier Caplan, who represented Gus Christofaris, an owner of property adjacent to Wein-gart's farm.

Caplan said he could see no reason why an area just one and one-half miles north of Salem should be changed to compete with Salem merchants.

"Downtown Salem is the shopping center of not only Salem, but an area that includes 65,000 persons," he said.

Caplan read the preamble to the zoning commission charter which states that the commission will act to protect the "health, safety, morals, comforts and general welfare" of its citizens. He said he felt sure that if all these things were considered, the rezoning request would not be approved.

In closing, Caplan said that if a zoning change is necessary, it would be wise to start at the top. That is to attempt to reclassify the area as a Residential I zone, and if that failed, a Residential II zone. If that also failed, efforts could be made to change it to a commercial zone, he concluded.

Also speaking for opponents of the change were Attys. Thomas H. Coe and Frank Springer of East Palestine. Numerous township residents also aired their disapproval of the proposal.

Ellsworth

Members of the United Presbyterian Church School held their picnic in Millcreek Park recently. Children enjoyed the playground and everyone enjoyed a covered dish supper.

Rev. Fred Cochran and family of Waynesburg, Pa., are moving to the United Presbyterian Manse the last week of August. He will take up his pastoral duties here the first Sunday in September.

Ellsworth School reunion was held at Diehl Lake Club House Saturday with 50 people present for the picnic dinner. At the business meeting officers for the coming year were elected. They are John Miller, president, Frank Waters, vice president; Destiny Calvin, secretary-treasurer.

It was decided to hold the 1963 reunion at the same place on the third Saturday in August. Marion Zimmerman and Albert Lease told of several interesting incidents on their vacations in Seattle and Fontana Beach.

Mrs. Lydia Fensmaker, 91, was the oldest member present.

Seven members of the Ellsworth Extension Club attended the annual picnic of the Mahoning County Extension Council at Canfield on Tuesday at the 4-H Building on the Canfield Fair Grounds. After the business session and a picnic dinner, the afternoon was given to plans for the coming Canfield Fair exhibit and the Christmas-at-Home meeting in October.

The Fair Committee plans to have an exhibit in the Home Arts and Crafts Building at the fair and demonstrations will be held in the 4-H auditorium.

Ellsworth Center Grange held a meeting on Tuesday to make final plans for their Fair exhibit. During the lecture hour, Robert Terry gave a report of his trip to Youth Camp at Kely's Island and the lecturer, Dorothea Wise, had special music by the Juvenile Grange.

Beginning with the September meetings, the grange will meet at 7:30 p.m. instead of 8 p.m.

Rev. Wagner of Berlin Center broke his ankle while on vacation and will not be able to preach at the Ellsworth Methodist Church as planned.

Directors of the Berlin-Ellsworth Ruritan Club had their monthly meeting at the home of Richard Klyne at Diehl Lake on Monday. Their monthly dinner meeting will be in the Berlin Methodist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Myron Mathews have returned to their home after a week spent on the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Adult Business Is Booming At University of Oklahoma

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — They're closing the gap between town and gown at the Center for Continuing Education at the University of Oklahoma.

Boosted by a $1.8 million grant from the Kellogg Foundation, business at the center is booming—and early this year it moved into striking new quarters.

Businessmen, housewives, farmers—adults from all sides of Main Street—are checking in for study in subjects ranging from arson investigation to a full-fledged bachelor's degree in liberal studies.

"The trend for adults interested in a subject is to return to the university," says Jess Burkett, coordinator for liberal studies at the center. He adds:

"Increased pressure for fresh knowledge and more leisure has given impetus to the trend. In a sense it has taken the place of the Chautauqua assemblies."

Bulk of the adult students attend short courses and conferences—intense instruction in specific subjects lasting from one day to five weeks.

Last year some 35,000 persons checked in for 200 such conferences taught by top members of the university faculty. Eventually, report center officials, there'll be some 350 conferences a year and 60,000 persons from all over the Southwest will attend.

"Nowadays by the time you walk across the platform to get a college diploma your knowledge is out of date," says Lee Hayden, Mississippi born director of short courses at the center.

A couple of recent conferences at the center reinforce his point. One explained to businessmen the commercial code adopted this year by the Oklahoma legislature.

And a step behind flights by the astronauts was a national conference on space law at the center—a conference called for by the University's law school.

Most of the short courses are technical and job related.

"A man has to keep up with his job education," explains Hayden. "We are ready to accommodate them."

A typical conference, recently completed, involved the teaching of new techniques to reservoir engineers by members of the university's engineering faculty.

Engineer-students attended classes from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., then ing to the Patrol, McMillen went left of center on a curve on the Georgetown Rd. and hit a car operated by James Mark Cross, 23, of 1275 E. 9th St. He left the scene but was later picked up by authorities in North Benton and brought to city jail here.

No one was hurt in a car-truck mishap on County Road 424 north of East Liverpool at 7:05 p.m. Monday. The Patrol said Donald Hancock, 36, of East Liverpool was attempting to make a left turn when his truck was struck by a car operated by Peter Kurylak, 62, of Youngstown, who was in the act of passing.

Police received a call shortly after 5:30 this morning that a man was lying in the street. When they arrived, police found Bender being attended to by two passing truck drivers. He told police a man hit him on the head. Bender held his money in his hand and said his assailant didn't get any of it.

Police said they found no marks on Bender's head but they believe he may have suffered a broken hip when he fell. They helped him to his hotel room and called a doctor when the victim refused to be taken to a hospital.

George Bender, 73, of the Wheel Hotel, 209 W. State St., suffered a hip injury when he allegedly was struck over the head by an unidentified man in an unsuccessful robbery attempt at 5:37 this morning in front of the Rodis Gin Mill on W. State St.

spent two hours a couple of nights a week in laboratory. The conference lasted four weeks.

"These are very intensive," says Hayden. "In general, one four-week course is the equivalent of six semester hours of regular resident college training."

In terms of numbers, the bachelor of liberal studies program (with approximately 100 enrolled) is somewhat dwarfed by conferences at the center.

But the program paves the way for a college degree with a minimum of resident study and a maximum of scholastic independence. It hits the spot for persons established in careers who want a college education.

"Generally, they enroll for two reasons," says Burkett: "Job advancement or personal satisfaction—or both."

To get the degree, a student must read about 120 books in natural science, social science and humanities, then attend four seminars of three weeks each at the center.

Adult education centers similar to the one here are scattered at universities across the nation. But officials at the Oklahoma center feel they now have something unique since the shift into new buildings—an air conditioned intellectual community in miniature.

"The new buildings were designed with a primary function in mind—to facilitate discussion between the adult students and faculty members," says Hayden. The modernistic buildings are a sharp contrast to the World War II barracks and traditionally designed sorority houses surrounding them just south of the main campus.

Hub of the new center is a forum building. Stemming from it like three spokes on a wheel are satellite conference rooms.

Nearby is a dormitory and 10 duplex houses for students who want to bring their families along for a course.

A separate six-story building—windowless and rectangular—is a self contained learning center designed to house, feed and enlighten 40 persons.

15, Evelyn, 19, and Nadine, 6, "had prayer and settled the matter with God right then and there" when they received the tragic news.

Marian was a quiet, studious girl who would have been a seventh grader at Lakeview School next month. The 5-foot-2 youngster was an avid reader, an excellent student and a leader of a youthful Bible training group, her father said. She made frequent trips to the branch library.

The boy being questioned by sheriff's deputies went first to his home, near the woods, and told his father he had seen a body there. The father called police.

A man who was walking in the area also was picked up and held overnight for less intensive questioning. Two or three other persons were questioned and released.

speed and other factors have been carefully computed.

It is essential that the probe approach within 25,000 miles of Venus if it is to gather the desired measurements.

The trajectory error was caused by an unexplained rolling motion executed by the first stage of the Atlas-Agena B booster rocket.

At the time of midcourse maneuver, Mariner 2 will be about one million miles from earth, traveling about 6,800 miles an hour.

At 2 a.m. today it has covered more than 200,000 miles of its planned 180-million mile trek across space.

Even though the midcourse motor fires, scientists do not know whether Mariner 2's instruments and transmitters will hold up in the unknown environment of space where they are subjected to radiation, shifting temperatures and meteorites.

The Soviet Union fired a payload within 62,000 miles of Venus last year but lost contact with it early in flight.

RED CHINA seems to be playing some sort of grim game in the checkered existence of thousands of refugees trying to flee into Hong Kong. One time border guards, patrol dogs and guns will be muzzled while refugees stream unhindered into Hong Kong. Then another time, they will clamp down again and it will be death for anyone caught escaping. Any deluge, of course, poses a critical problem for the city of Hong Kong, which is already dangerously overcrowded with the refugees.

Yanks' Ralph Terry Blanks Tribe 5-0 With 3-Hitter

Orioles Lose 7-0 to Senators

N.Y. Boosts Loop Lead to 3½ Games

Ralph Terry, who five years ago climbed out of a ditch to resume his pitching career, reigns today as king of the hill in the American League.

Terry, 26, a right-hander, reached the top Monday night with a sparkling performance limiting Cleveland to three singles in a 5-0 victory that ended the first-place New York Yankees' longest losing streak in four years at six games.

It left Terry, the AL's most winning pitcher, only one triumph shy of the 20-victory circle, and propelled him another step upward in the long, hard climb that began on a bleak November night in 1958 when he fell asleep at the wheel of his car.

In Serious Accident
Terry's car shot into a ditch and rolled over four times.

Terry recalls, "They took me to Kansas City (he had been traded by the Yankees) where they found I had fractured my hip. I spent seven weeks in traction, lucky to be alive."

In 1959, Terry was traded back to the Yankees. A year later he compiled a 10-8 record, but threw the home run ball to Bill Mazaroski that gave the Pittsburgh Pirates the World Series. Last year he was 16-3, although sidelined for a time and lost his one series start against Cincinnati.

This year he has been healthy all season and has stepped in as Ralph Houk's big winner. The victory against the Indians was his third shutout, and his 12th complete game, bringing his record to 19-10.

The triumph boosted the Yankees league lead to 3½ games over second-place Los Angeles and third-place Minnesota, both idle.

Cheney Hurls 4-Hitter

In the only other games scheduled, Lu Clinton and Carl Yastrzemski powered Boston to a 7-4 decision over Detroit and Washington blanked Baltimore 7-0 behind Tom Cheney's four-hitter. There were no games scheduled in the National League.

Terry hurled perfect ball until Bubba Phillips singled in opening the sixth inning. A single by Tito Francona in the seventh and Al Luplow's infield single with two out in the ninth were the only other Indian hits. Terry faced only 30 batters, striking out nine while walking one.

Rookie left-hander Sam McDowell (2-6) took the loss. He gave up two runs in the second inning, when Mickey Mantle doubled for the first of his four hits and Tom Tresh and Elston Howard walked. Clinton hit his seventh homer in 13 days and added a double and single for three runs batted in while Yastrzemski was 3-for-3 with a double and two singles, scoring three times and knocking in two runs for the Red Sox.

Billy Bruton and Al Kaline tagged winner Gene Conley (13-11) for consecutive homers in the first inning and Kaline's single in the seventh accounted for the other two Tiger runs and brought on reliever Dick Radatz to finish up. The loser was Hank Aguirre (12-6).

Cheney (5-8) posted his third shutout with his third complete game, retiring the last 12 Orioles he faced. Russ Snyder and Whitey Herzog shared Baltimore's four hits. Harry Bright, who was 3-for-4 with two RBI, drove in the first Senator run with a first-inning triple off Billy Hoelt (4-7).

Plum's Passing Leads Lions Past Steelers

Given the chance to prove his point, quarterback Milt Plum is doing just that these days for his new club, the Detroit Lions.

Acquired by the National Football League club in a multi-player deal with the Cleveland Browns, Plum expressed great satisfaction at escaping the I-call-the-plays system employed by Cleveland coach Paul Brown.

Plum always contended that a quarterback should be allowed to run the team on his own and in Cleveland that's just not the way it's done. After five years Plum began complaining out loud and before he knew it, he was wearing a Lions' jersey.

Detroit coach George Wilson promised the ex-Penn State star complete control of the club while he was on the field. Monday night Plum not only was in control of the Lions but he ran the Pittsburgh Steelers too—right off the field.

With the Detroit offense stumbling and his club trailing 7-0 in the second period, Wilson put in Plum. The ex-Brown peppered the Steeler defense with passes, completing 15 of 18, including two touchdowns, as Detroit came from behind for a 26-20 victory.

That gave Plum 27 completions in 44 attempts in Detroit's first three exhibitions, and that kind of figures could make NFL Western Division coaches wish Plum had never left Cleveland.

Today was cutdown day in both American and National Leagues, with NFL teams forced to reduce their rosters to 43 men and AFL clubs to 38. Most clubs had already reached the cutdown figures but two teams, Buffalo in the AFL and Minnesota in the NFL, were active in the player market.

The Bills asked waivers on guard Jim La Compton, their seventh draft choice from North Carolina, and linebacker Don Caraway, who had been signed as a free agent. Buffalo also signed Marv Matuszak, a linebacker recently released by the Baltimore Colts.

The Vikings returned tackle Dale Mommelaar to the St. Louis Cardinals, nullifying an earlier trade that sent a 1963 draft choice to the Cardinals. Minnesota also got Ted Stute, a rookie tackle, from the Cleveland Browns.

NBA Players Hope Lucas Winds Up In Rival League

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Nothing personal, says Hub Reed, but National Basketball Association players hope Jerry Lucas winds up in the rival American Basketball League.

Reed, a former Oklahoma City University star now playing with the Cincinnati Royals, told an OCU Booster Club meeting Monday night NBA fans and team managements want Lucas in their league—but the players don't.

"We wanted him in the other league, hoping he would be enough to keep the league going," explained Reed. "When we get through in the NBA maybe we could hook on for a couple of years with a team in the ABL, if it's still in business."

Lucas, an All-America for Ohio State, was the Royals' first draft choice. He elected to sign with Cleveland of the ABL.

Lisbon Social

By ETTA MAE ALEXANDER

The fourth annual reunion of descendants of the late Jacob and Serena Masters was held Sunday at Thompson Park, East Liverpool.

Forty-eight relatives from Wellsville, East Liverpool, Lisbon, Xenia, and Industry, Pa. gathered for the picnic dinner.

Grover Masters 74, of East Liverpool, was the oldest person present. Lorri Lynn Cloud, three months old, of Lisbon, the youngest, and Alvin Bailey and sons of Xenia, traveled the farthest distance to attend.

Officers elected for next year are Larry Cloud of Lisbon, president; James Cronin of West Point, vice president; Klarinda Cloud of Lisbon, secretary, and Audrey O'Hanon of Lisbon, treasurer.

Next year's reunion will be held at Thompson Park, Aug. 25.

MRS. MARY JANE Messenger and daughter, Diane, have been visiting her father, Clayton Armstrong of Calcutta, and her sisters, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Coie of Lisbon and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Houston of Calcutta.

Diane Messenger joined her mother in England last fall, after working with a church group in Japan for several months. While abroad, they visited Ireland, and met relatives they didn't know existed until now.

They were to leave for their home at Monterey, Calif., this morning by plane from Pittsburgh. Mrs. Messenger will teach in the high school there this coming year.

It's The Truth!

A safety conference was told by R. I. Brown of the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety that, "Every driver needs a good co-pilot. I think any man would rather have his wife call attention to a dangerous traffic situation than to keep still and let him get killed. Good backseat driving is good sense." Be that as it may, we backstop you with the safety and savings that come from good service plus top economy.
